BRILLIANT WEDDING TO BE STAGED AT ST. JOHN'S TODAY

Gladys Mackay-Smith to Become Bride of William Bell Watkins.

VESTED CHOIR AT SERVICE

· Many Notable Visitors in Town for Ceremony-Reception to Follow the Marriage.

The marriage of Miss Gladys Mackay-Smith, daughter of Mrs. Alexander Mackay-Smith, to William Bell Watkins, of Westtown, Pa., will take place this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

The scene of the ceremony will be picturesque St. John's Church, of which the bride's father, the Rt. Rev. Alexander Mackay-Smith, bishop of Pennsylvania, was rector for many years, and the Rev. Ernest Paddock, of Cambridge, Mass., who was assistant at St John's during Bishop Mackay-Smith's incumtency, will officiate.

The Rt. Rev. Alfred Harding, bishop of Washington, will pronounce the

An arch of green starred with lilies, marks the spot where the bridal couple will stand, Mr. Freeman, organist of the church, will give a musical program during the scating of the guests, and a de-lightful feature of the wedding music will be the singing of the vested boy caoir.

choir.

Marching two by two they will precede the bridal party to the chancel, entering the church to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin. Immediately after the betrothal service they will sing "O. Perfect Love." and several other selections will be given during the ceremony. Mendelssohn's Wedding March will be the recessional.

Bride Wears White Satin.

The beautiful bride, who will be given in marriage by her mother, will be escorted to the altar by William R. Mowe, of New York. She will wear a lovely gown of heavy white satin, with a court train six yards in length a court train six yards in length. Flounces of rare point lace, which adorned her mother's wedding dress, are used on the skirt, and the bodice is composed of lace and tulle.

Her tulle vell, worn over the face, will be bound across the brow with a chaplet of orange blossoms and a rarely beautiful vell of point lace, which came to the bride from her grandmother. Mrs. Elljah Ward, will be arranged over this at the back, falling from a point caught to the hair to the end of the long train. The portion of the train not covered The portion of the train not covered by the veil is embroidered in pearls in a lily design, and pearl embroidery is also used on the bodice of the gown. The bride will carry white roses and lilies of the valley.
